ASC Staff, Volunteer and Assisted Living Community Win Indiana Health Care Association Top Awards

Staff and a volunteer from American Senior Communities locations and an Assisted Living community were chosen to receive top Indiana Health Care Association (IHCA) awards.

The health care association is the state's largest trade association and advocate for skilled nursing centers, hospital-based nursing, assisted living and independent living communities. The award winners and nominators will all receive free registration to the IHCA convention, which will be held later this summer. Winners are:

Eddie Butts, maintenance director at Mount Vernon Nursing and Rehabilitation, nominated by Joelle Butcher-Allen, named Support Services Team Member of the Year.

Richard Andresse, nominated by Greg Schiavone, named Volunteer of the Year at Lowell Healthcare.

Heritage Park Assisted Living and General Manager Greg Hevel, nominated by Kim Hughes, named Assisted Living Facility of the Year.

"Receiving multiple awards reaffirms what we already know and that is our staff at American Senior Communities is second to none," said Donna Kelsey, CEO. "Their commitment to our seniors goes way beyond their job descriptions. They genuinely love the people they serve. Congratulations for a job well done."
