

Marsha McCauley

LPN • Edgewater Woods

Marsha McCauley has worked at Edgewater Woods for over 19 years and has held several positions. No matter her role, she is consistently driven to excellence through her compassion for people.

Residents know Marsha as a caring nurse and a friend when they need one. If worried about a resident, Marsha has gone home on several occasions only to return later in the evening to check on them. One resident says the minute she sees Marsha at the door of her room, her spirits are lifted, and she knows that they will share some great conversation and laughter.

Marsha has been receiving chemo on and off for the last several years. She has continued to work and share her journey with others. One resident was also fighting cancer and he had given up. Many tried to encourage and help him, but he could not find the will to fight. Marsha walked into his room while hooked up to her chemo treatment, and they shared with each other the feelings that only those who are experiencing a similar journey can understand. Marsha truly saved his life by helping him realize that he still has a purpose and he needs to do everything within his power to live. This story is only one example of what Marsha does every day. If you ask her what the best thing about her job is she will tell you it is the residents. They mean everything to her and helping them is what gives her the passion to be the best that she can be.
