Bedford Senior Community Receives Perfect Annual Survey from State Dept. of Health for Third Consecutive Year

BEDFORD, IN – Westview Nursing and Rehabilitation Center in Bedford has received a deficiency-free annual state inspection from the Indiana State Department of Health for the third consecutive year.

A deficiency-free rating is the highest accolade a senior care community can earn, achieved by only a small percentage of senior care homes. This status reflects excellence across various metrics, including cleanliness, staff-to-resident ratios, full compliance with state and federal regulations, safety, dietary standards, and quality of care. The rigorous evaluation process involves unannounced inspections, thorough record reviews, and interviews with residents, families, and staff.

American Senior Communities CEO, Steve Van Camp said, “The team at Westview Nursing maintain excellence not only in healthcare standards, but in the adherence to our core values focused on building strong teamwork, personal and compassionate care of residents, open communication with care teams and families, and a strong dedication to going beyond required benchmarks.”
