American Village Assisted Living Receives Perfect Annual Survey from Indiana Department of Health

Indianapolis, IN (July 15, 2026) – American Village Assisted Living, a member of American Senior Communities, has earned a deficiency-free annual state inspection from the Indiana State Department of Health for their assisted living services. A deficiency-free survey is the highest rating a senior care community can earn and is achieved by only a small percentage of senior care providers each year.

American Village Assisted Living is part of a full continuum senior living campus, providing compassionate care and creating a welcoming environment for seniors and their families. This latest achievement reflects the community's ongoing commitment to maintaining the highest standards of quality care, high safety standards, and a strong commitment to resident satisfaction.

Senior communities undergo unannounced inspections conducted by the Indiana State Department of Health each year. These thorough evaluations review multiple aspects of operations, including cleanliness, regulatory compliance, resident and staff safety protocols, dietary services, recordkeeping, staffing levels, and overall quality of care. Inspectors also incorporate feedback from residents, their families, and team members to ensure a comprehensive and balanced assessment.

American Senior Communities CEO Steve Van Camp shared, “A deficiency-free survey is an extraordinary accomplishment and one that reflects the heart of a community. At American Village, our team members bring compassion, professionalism, and purpose to their work every day, creating a place where residents feel respected, supported, and truly at home. Having served the Indianapolis and surrounding community for decades, this recognition speaks to the culture of excellence they have built and sustained. We are incredibly proud of this team and grateful for the trust residents and families place in them each day.”

General Manager, Gina Middaugh added, “While we are incredibly proud of this achievement, what we celebrate most are the people behind it. The entire team works so hard to earn and maintain the respect of our residents and their families, always putting their well-being first by maintaining high standards of care, and personal attention to their preferences and choices. This recognition validates the culture of care that exists throughout our community, and it has been our privilege to serve those who choose to make American Village their home.”
